MENTAL HEALTH TIPS

Below are some tips from the Defense Centers of Excellence (DCoE) to support treatment of mental illness and posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD):

1. Lean on fellow veterans and service members – contact your VA center or find a support group. You can also contact your VA center for help finding the right support group.
2. Continue your education with support from the VA – the VA provides three programs for veteran education.
3. Try to return to work or volunteer – go to a career fair or work with local organizations like Workforce Solutions or Goodwill.
4. Exercise – this can reduce tension and relax your body.
5. Talk and spend time with a social support system – this can be a friend, family members, your children, or other veterans.

You are not alone! Below is contact information for 24/7 support from the DCoE:
